V.R.C. SPORTS.

Twelfth Athletic Meeting.

We append the results of the V.R.C. sports after we went to press on Saturday.

It was extremely disappointing to the spectators that in the quarter and half mile events none of the competitors turned out to try serious conclusions with Andrews, the champion runner of the Buffs. It, as it certainly appeared, they were afraid of the result going against them, their lack of sportsmanship cannot be too strongly condemned. There were those present at the sports on Saturday who were under the impression that Andrews is not an amateur, but this is distinctly opposed to the facts of the case. When he arrived in the Colony he endeavoured to become a member of the A.A.A., but he was debarré on the grounds that he had taken money prizes in regimental sports. Thereupon he wrote laying the case before the Preston committee of the South Africa Association, which body wrote the Secretary of the Hongkong A.A.A. pointing out that a soldier was allowed to run for money at any regimental meeting and still retain his amateur status. On receipt of this letter the Secretary informed Andrews that he had been made a member of the local A.A.A. He was therefore clearly eligible as competitor at the V.R.C. sports.

SKIRMISHING IN TONKIN.

The campaign against the brigands in Upper Tonkin proceeds on lines which have so far secured success. The military chiefs, who seek to starve the brigands into surrendering, have cut off their supplies wherever practicable. The brigands, pinched by hunger, are shot down at sight. Many have surrendered to save themselves from starvation. All food supplies are removed from the villages near the campaign line, and stored at safe places, under watch so that only the people can provision themselves. The brigands, with food running short, can neither buy, borrow, nor steal to support themselves. Villages liable to be raided have been supplied with arms for defence against the outlaws. The result is that the latter, along with the refugees, Chinese revolutionaries, who have taken refuge in the border regions, are being driven to the frontiers, one after another. The campaign is progressing well.

DANCING.

WHAT a very considerable part the art of dancing has played in the history of the world only students perhaps really know. It was a mystic dance, a dance of waving hands and woven paces, according to Japanese legend, which induced the Sun-goddess to come forth from the cave of blackest night into which her brother's outrageous rudeness had driven her, which saved the Earth from being condemned to revolve for ever in the regions of eternal gloom. It was a similar Sun dance which the ancient Celts used to perform around their Baal fires on Midsummer Eve and at the passing of the equinox of spring and autumn, again to propitiate the great luminary of Day. East and West, North and South, in legend, sacred writing or folk story we gather the religious and ritualistic significance attached to dancing in the earliest phases of civilization as well as in later times. The Jews had their sacred and choric dances down to the final sacking of Jerusalem by Titus, and the ancient cult of Japan, Shinto, the Way of the Gods, still relies upon the mystical effects produced in the course of certain festivals by the sacred dances, as a very important adjunct to the ritual.

But dancing as understood by Europeans and Americans has long lost its religious significance. It is now principally looked upon as affording a pleasurable diversion, or as an aid to graceful deportment. In America during the last three or four years educationists have suddenly been smitten with the idea that dancing should find a recognised place in the school curriculum, and we read that in New York alone 3,000 school-children and 75 teachers take part in the daily dancing lessons. The idea of teaching dancing in the schools has also taken hold in Chicago and is being copied in other cities. The object of the dance in schools is to give the girls the same sort of healthful exercise as the boys take in gymnastics, and at the same time invest them with an accomplishment, habit or aberration, as the case may be, that will prove of advantage to them in later life.

The idea is based on the sound belief that properly directed play is of far more advantage in physical development than calculated exercise. It is the romping of the littles of its day, that develops the steel sinews of the tiger, and conceals them in a grace that no human being can approach, no matter how persistently he trains or practises. So with the children, the dancing, which seems just fun for them, proves of the utmost value in strengthening their muscles, improving their lung power and heart action and rounding their limbs. When the weather permits, the dancing lessons are given out-of-doors, where there is not the disadvantage of dust stirred up underfoot to be inhaled by the dancer. The folk dances of Russia and Sweden appear to be the most popular with the children, because they are made up of vigorous movements and are a capital outlet for the energy and enthusiasm of the youngsters. These folk dances correspond to the "barn dances" which find recognition in a modern ball programme. They are sharply in contrast to the school of dancing which is being introduced with so much success on the stage by Maud Allan and her imitators. Although the "Salome" dance is denounced and criticized, there can be no doubt that the new school of dancing will place the art on a higher plane than it has attained in modern times. The origin of these dances, which are somewhat crudely described as "foe dances," goes back to the seventeenth century, if, indeed, it is not as old as dancing itself. But more than 200 years ago there were dances to the tunes of BACH, HANDEL and others. A pioneer in this sort of dance was EMMA LADY HAMILTON, the enslaver of NELSON. From studying the mural paintings unearthed by her husband, SIR WILLIAM HAMILTON, in Italy, she invented an original and beautiful dance. In this respect she has a modern counterpart in Mrs. LOW WALL MOORE, an American sculptress, who copies poses from the old Grecian vases which she weaves into a dance. She has recreated the old Greek drama dances, and has become an authority on some phases of Greek history from her researches. The classical ballet is what Mlle. GENNE, the Danish dancer, calls the steps which she has devised, and whose rhythm expresses an almost infinite variety of emotions. MARY GARDNER, MADORA DUNCAN and MAUD ALLAN are other leaders in this modern school of dancing, which aim to interpret some of the greatest musical works into terms of motion, just as a poet might strive to translate them in terms of speech.

Though these dances are a development of only three or four years, they are, after all, a return to the earliest history of the dance, when people danced to express emotions of various kinds, and not simply to amuse themselves. All the religious dances—those which MM. L. led in the wilderness, or which the priestesses of Egypt, Assyria and Greece danced in the groves and pavilions of their various cults—were expressed more by motions of the arms and flexions of the body than movements of the feet, and were then, as now, done to the accompaniment of music. It was such a dance that VIVY must have used when she ensnared MENELAI.

The modern revival of dancing as an art occurred in Italy in the fifteenth century. The ballet was transplanted to France by CATHERINE DE MEDICI, where it has flourished ever since. In 1812 the waltz was first evolved in Germany, and quickly spread over all the civilised world. It displaced, much to the horror and disgust of Lord Byron and the men of his day, the beautiful old minuet and other square dances, and still remains unparalleled in popularity. The two-step, which has had considerable vogue in the past twenty years, is an American invention, and the truly horrible and inartistic cakewalk is also claimed by the United States. Although some people believe that it originated in Hungary, twenty years ago it was as if dancing was going to be a list art so far, at least, as the sterner sex were concerned, but a great change has come about in recent years and it is almost a reproach nowadays for a man of the middle and upper classes not to know something about the art as practised in the ball-room. So whether we look upon dancing as merely a form of exercise, a graceful art, or a means of expressing pleasurable emotion, it is equally worthy of our attention and regard, while to the student it forms a link with the past of unsurpassed interest.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Lance-Corpl Andrews, of the Buffs, who was to have run in the 220 yards championship race in connection with the Lusitania Club sports, this afternoon, last night had the misfortune to fall down some steps at Murray Barracks and dislocate his shoulder.

The annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Literary and Debating Society will be held in the Association Rooms on Tuesday evening, at 9 p.m. Members are requested to make an effort to be present on this occasion, as business of importance concerning the future of the Society will come before the meeting. A committee for the ensuing year will be elected.

Mr. William Landon, Nationalist M.P. for Limerick County East since 1900, is dead. He took an active part in the Fenian movement, and served three years in prison, after which he took a hand in the fighting in Canada. Returning to Ireland he was again imprisoned for his share in the Land League outrages, after which he quitted down and entered Parliament.

A shocking case of smog is reported from Dutch East Borneo, early in March. Three native hawks were busy collecting amounts due to them at a riverside village when the inhabitants disagreed with the hawks and killed two of them. The surviving dealer, on finding that his comrades had been murdered, ran amok and killed fourteen persons. What became of him afterwards is unknown.

The steamers Montfort and Montrose, large twin screw, steel, funneasted vessels, of the type of the Montague, now used in the intermediate service of the Canadian Pacific Railway to the Orient, the latter much larger, are to be transferred from the Atlantic to the trans-Pacific service of the Canadian Pacific. The steamers Lennox and Glenfarg, which were used for some months on the coast, have ended their engagements, and the Montfort and Montrose will replace them.

The reduction of wages and the stoppage of work at several collieries is causing grave anxiety among miners in Scotland. Two thousand more men have been thrown out of work by the closing of the Aherarn, Maudy, and Rhymney collieries. In all the districts of Scotland miners' wages have been reduced by 64 per cent, the wage being thus lowered to six shillings per shift, the rate for pit labourers being also reduced. It is computed that 100,000 workers are subjected to the alteration, which has been brought about by the low selling price of coal in Scotland.

A telegram from Peshawar reports great excitement in the Amir's camp at Jellalabad, consequent on the discovery of a plot to assassinate the Amir, the Heir Apparent, Sardar Fayzullah, and other members of the Royal Family. Arrests have been made at Kabul and Jellalabad and military precautions taken. Rumour credits a share in the conspiracy to Bibi Halima, the Royal wife of the late Amir, who exercised great influence during the latter portion of Abdur Rahman's reign. The Amir is fully equal to the situation. The premeditation with which the arrests have been made has prevented dangerous developments, and already several men have been blown from the guns.

THE PHOENIX CLUB.

Owing to greater demands on our space on Saturday night we were only just able to mention the excellent performance given by "Dante," the Magician, and his talented wife, at the Phoenix Club on Thursday night last.

For the first time in the life history of the Club the premises were thrown open to the members' lady friends, who courteously responded by attending in goodly numbers and giving the Club's hall by their presence.

The performance was decidedly clever, and though the representative committee chosen from the audience (who, by the way, were responsible for a considerable part of the amusement) did their utmost to fetter the way some of the tricks were done, they were quite unable to do so. The display of shadowgraphy given during the performance was by no means the least amusing, many of the pictures showing producing rounds of applause and peals of laughter.

As a final word, we congratulate the committee of the Club on the most successful and enjoyable evening they afforded and hope it will not be long before a similar entertainment is given.

THE COLONY'S FINANCES.

In the Hongkong Government Gazette there appears a detailed statement showing the Treasury's total receipts and expenditure for the year 1908. This is not of an altogether satisfactory character, for under a number of heads the estimates have not been realised, while the balance has shrunk from $393,541.38 at the beginning of the year to $133,005.97 at the close. There is a total revenue of $6,104,907.33, which falls below the estimates by $123,682.67.

Under the eight heads of revenue four have produced more than anticipated and a like number less than expected. Light dues brought in $79,975.63, which was $975.68 above the Colonial Treasurer's estimate; licences and internal revenue not otherwise specified yielded $4,154,908.56, no less than $31,761.44 under the sum contemplated; fees of Court or office realised $514,730.49, being $31,479.49 above the estimate; the Post Office revenue was $97,431.60 more than the $315,000.00 expected; rent of Government property, land, and houses brought in $789,081.80, which was $10,082.20 below the estimate; interest, which was anticipated to yield $1,600.00, is represented by a blank; miscellaneous receipts totalled $88,592.01, against $69,100.00 estimated; while land sales, which were put down as value for $200,000.
